Less volunteer grain the following year in sprayer tracks. Easier swathing, combining and tillage when grain is not trampled.

FEATURING

- Stainless steel cones with enclosed back feature a slim dividing tip
- Durable construction for years of use
- Cropsavers are fully adjustable horizontally and vertically

Cropsavers are able to cross most ditches or spray rolling fields with moderate drainage channels without a problem.

in Iowa

- Eliminates the operation of levelling dirt piles or ridges left behind by scrapers, graders or bulldozers.
- Creates smooth Ditches and Waterways in a single operation. (no ridges or barrel cuts)
- Works in all soil types even Heavy Clay Soil. (not soils with large amounts of rocks)

The Wolverine Extreme delivers Outstanding Quality, Durability and Performance!

Precision Grade Control with optional GPS or Laser.

Introducing the Farm Dolly for towing heavy tongue weight equipment.

- Can carry Tongue Weights of up to 5000 lbs.
- Torsion axles and Electric Brakes
- (2-5/16) Ball Hitch to connect to Pickup
- 7 pin RV style electrical connector (to Pickup)
- 235/85 R16 highway tires
- Safety lock securely holds pins
- Ag Pin receptacle for implement electrical connection
- Fenders and Lights

The Farm Dolly can move farm equipment with heavy tongue weights easier. Our ditcher has a tongue weight of 3500 lbs. This is too heavy for a standard bumper on a pickup. (even a one ton)

The hitch is adjustable to increase the weight transferred to the truck bumper if required and can be adjusted up and down.

When pulling farm equipment do not exceed the speed recommended by the manufacturer of the equipment.

The Best Liquid System From a Company with Over 129 Years of Experience

The most reliable liquid fertilizer system on the market today is simple. It starts with the CDS-John Blue Piston Pump coupled with a Flow Divider for equal distribution. Select either the Variable Rate Hydraulic Drive (VRH) or a Ground Drive (DRV) to drive your system. Simply add the VisaGage II to monitor your flow and couple it to our Electronic Liquid Blockage Monitor System (LBMS), which monitors the flow from your tractor cab. Add the in-line Check Valve to stop unwanted dripping at the application point.

- NEW CDS-John Blue Direct Hydraulic Drive for Piston Pumps, lower cost, more compact solution for variable rate piston pump drives. Supply own SAE A 2-bolt motor or a hydraulic motor/PWM manifold kit is available from CDS-John Blue.

- Numerous Piston Pump models available including Adjustable Rate Pumps, one pump to apply two products or two rates.
- Our Variable Rate Hydraulic Packages (VRH) fit the most common electronics packages.

- Flow Dividers are available in 6, 12 and 20 outlets.
- Ideal for sectional shut-off applications.
- Accurate at high and low rates.
- Introducing the Adjustable Spring Kit for balancing multiple flow dividers.

- Know your flow with the VisaGage II Flow Monitor coupled to the Liquid Blockage Monitor System (LBMS).

- VisaGage II's are UV protected for longer life.
- Available for spraying or fertilizer applications.
- LBMS is the only system on the market to show both low-flow and no-flow, plus the premium system shows high flow, all from the tractor cab.

- Stop unwanted dripping with our Poly Check Valves.
- Easy to clean and repairable.
- Available with various cracking pressures and push connect fittings.

The only company that can manufacture and provide you with your complete fertilizer package,
CDS-John Blue Company.

Cash crop tractors

After five years of record-setting new equipment sales in North America and across most of the world, the pace of manufacturing on ag equipment assembly lines slowed considerably through 2015.

► By the end of September sales of rigid-frame tractors above 100 horsepower in Canada were down 10.5 per cent over the previous year. The number for 4-wheel drive tractors slumped even further, declining almost 30 per cent.

Reduced grain and oilseed prices seem to be the main reason demand for new tractors is slowing in the cash crop segment. Despite that, manufacturers have introduced new models and updates to existing tractor lines across most horsepower classes. But there weren't nearly as many major design changes introduced in 2015 as there have been in past years when demand for new tractors was at record-high levels.

This year the debut of John Deere's 4-track 9RX may have been the most anticipated of the new model introductions. At its annual dealer convention in 2014, the brand showed a pre-production 9RX prototype but wouldn't say when it would be released. This year, however, the announcement was finally made and 9RXs officially starting rolling out the factory doors.

Sales of used tractors have remained reasonably strong through 2015, especially for those machines with pre-emissions engines. And to help support used equipment sales across several product categories, all the major brands have introduced Certified Pre-Owned programs that offer a manufacturer's warranty to selected late-model, used machines. Aggressive financing programs for new equipment also started popping up in 2015 for the first time in years. In the previous five seasons there was no real need to try and stimulate new tractor sales. They were humming along just fine without incentives. In fact, just keeping up with demand posed a challenge for most brands.

Going into the 2016 season, the good news for farmers is low interest rates and manufacturers incentives are making it possible to get a good deal on a new or used tractor. And there is a good selection of late-model, used machines on the market, offering buyers more tractor choices than they've had in years.

JCB

► In 2015, JCB updated its Fastrac tractor to better suit the needs of North American farmers. The new version is now called the 4000 Series and offers three models in the 160 to 220 horsepower range. The tractors still have a lightning fast 65 km/h speed rating.

With the 4000's equal-wheel design, full 4-wheel active suspension, central cab, air-over-hydraulic disc brakes with air brake trailer connections and rear platform capable of carrying a load of up to 4,000 kilograms (8,800 pounds), the tractors' design remains unique in the Canadian ag equipment marketplace.

4000 Series Fastracs use a new unibody-style chassis, which is also narrower than previous models. That helps give them what the company claims is a "best-in-class turning radius" of just over 10 metres. To further improve manoeuvrability, buyers can opt for standard front axle steering only or an optional feature that includes five different steering modes by incorporating rear axle steering. Also with the Fast Steer option, steering wheel sensitivity can be increased to only two full turns lock-to-lock to make the tractor easier to handle in confined spaces.

The 4000 Series will also appeal to mixed farmers because they now come ready for a front-end loader right from the factory. The 4-wheel suspension can be locked to increase stability when doing heavy front-end loader work.

All three Fastrac models use AGCO's 6.6 litre, six-cylinder diesel mated to a CVT transmission. In the hydraulics department, a 144 l/min. (38 g.p.m.), flow-on-demand, closed centre, piston pump delivers oil flow to implements while a separate gear pump keeps fluid supplied to the tractor steering system.

A more steeply sloped front hood improves forward visibility, and an updated cab includes a driver's seat that swivels 50 degrees right and 20 degrees left.

NEW HOLLAND

► This year New Holland grew its tractor line with the addition of two all-new models that fit into the new compact-chassis, mid-range horsepower category that is aimed at creating a more versatile tractor capable of a wide range of on-farm duties.

The new Heavy Duty T7 290 and T7 315 tractors were unveiled in early summer and are a hybrid between existing T7 and the larger T8 tractor lines. With 240 and 270 horsepower at the PTOs, these tractors are well suited to PTO duties where the advantages of a heavier chassis and longer wheelbase aren't required, such as operating large square balers.

The T7 Heavy Duty tractors are fully auto guidance ready and compatible with New Holland's IntelliCruise large square baler automation feature.

Features include a class 4.75 saddle-mount suspended front axle, which is heavier than that on a regular T7, but lighter than those used T8s. Along with that, a suspended cab and a whole new family of seats add to operator comfort.

Behind the six-cylinder FPT (Fiat Powertrain) diesel is the brand's mechanical Auto Command CVT transmission. Optional hydraulic capacity can hit 58 g.p.m. (That's about 220 l/min.)

One step up the horsepower ladder are the five Genesis T8 Series models. These front-wheel assist tractors offer 205 to 315 PTO horsepower. For growers that want better flotation, the three largest T8s are available as SmartTrax models.

They run on a larger diameter front wheel and a rear track module.

The brand also continues to offer tracked versions of the three largest articulated T9 models, the T9.600, T9.645 and T9.700, which hit 620 rated engine horsepower.

New Holland also made improvements to its PLM telematics system this year, introducing cloud-based two-way data transfer that uses cellular service, and it introduced the option of third-party limited access to data.

CASE IH

► New Holland's sister brand in the CNH family, Case IH, has also added comparable new tractors to its line that are close cousins to the T7 Heavy Duty. Case IH calls their models the Optum line and they offer the same 240 and 270 PTO horsepower ratings.

Just as the New Holland T7s can be equipped to work with that brand's large square balers, the Optum tractors can be paired to Case IH's LB4 Square balers through their Class 3 ISOBUS capability that accommodates the Feedrate Control system.

Optums also pair a Tier 4B FPT (Fiat Powertrain) six-cylinder diesel to a CVT transmission. Like all FPT diesels, these tractors rely on only SCR technology to meet emissions standards, omitting the need for cooled exhaust gas recirculation.

Along with auto guidance, the Optums are available with anti-lock disc brakes and an in-cab tire air pressure monitoring system.

To make them capable performers in the field, Optums come with three axle choices which allow for a variety of wheel spacings for row-crop work.

The axles can accommodate large single tires up to 900 millimetres wide.

The larger Magnum Series tractors offer more power on a longer wheelbase chassis to make them more capable field machines. And just like NH's T8 Series, three Magnum Row-trac models offer the same optional, larger diameter front wheel and rear track module combination.

Overall improvements to the 2016 Magnum tractor line include a heavy-duty brake option to increase wear life for tractors that regularly pull heavy loads, a high-mount road light option, a fuel tank cross over to reduce refuelling times, improvements to the CVT transmission software and a quieter hydrostatic pump.

Fitting in just below the Magnum in the Case IH family is the Puma line, which spans the 150 to 240 horsepower segment. It offers a couple of chassis sizes and 6.7 litre FPT diesels under the hoods. Pumas get a range of options similar to their big brothers, the Magnums.

For the 2016 model year, Pumas see some enhancements. Those include an improved HVAC system in the cab for better climate control and an upgraded seat. They also get the same anti-lock brake option now available on the Magnums. The new body style used on Puma hoods means they can be removed without tools to make servicing easier and faster.

The brand's flagship tractor line is the articulated Steigers, which are available in wheeled, Rowtrac and Quadtrac configurations. They get some overall improvements for 2016, too. Transmission shifting performance improves and buyers can opt for an improved LED work light package. An automatic differential lock, electric mirrors and improved GPS guidance debut along with an advanced steering system to reduce operator input and improve control on the road and in the field.

FENDT

► Fendt continues to offer its 700, 800 and 900 Series tractors to the North American cash crop segment.

The new line of 700 Series tractors, offering 145 to 240 maximum engine horsepower, were introduced in August of 2014. There are six models in this series. All are powered by Tier 4B-compliant Deutz diesels, making them the only tractors in AGCO's group of brands not to use AGCO Power engines. All tractors are equipped with Fendt's own Vario CVT transmission.

With the release of the new 700s last year, the smaller models in the series were given the same heavier front axle that was previously only available on the larger 722 and 724. That gives all the tractors the ability to carry heavier weights on a front-end loader or the optional front-mounted, three-point hitch.

To help improve fuel efficiency, the 700s offer four 1000E PTO speeds, allowing the tractor to operate equipment at rated speed but at lower engine r.p.m.s.

Inside the cab, 700s come equipped with a 10.4-inch Varioterminal monitor, which is compatible with VarioGuide auto guidance, VarioDoc documentation software and Variotronic IM Implement Control.

Those same digital features are available on the 700's larger brothers, the 800 and 900 Series. To further help improve fuel efficiency, the larger models get Load Limit Control 2.0, which allows the transmission ratio to change based on the amount of engine speed drop when under load. The system also allows operators to give priority to a target ground speed or limit the engine load.

These tractors are also available with the brand's unique VarioGrip option. It allows the operator to change tire pressures right from the cab. Tire pressure can be lowered to maximize traction in the field then aired up again for road travel on the trip back to the farmyard.

The new 800s and 900s, which debuted a few months before the updated 700s, offer eight different models that span the 220 to 360 horsepower range.

MASSEY FERGUSON

► 2014 saw the introduction of new mid- and high-horsepower tractors from AGCO's Massey Ferguson brand. The company updated its previous 7600 and 8600 Series models and renamed them the 7700 and 8700.

Together these tractors span the 155 to 370 engine horsepower range. The five models in the 7700 Series take care of 155 to 255, while the five 8700s cover the 270 to 370 range.

Under the hoods of 8700 models is an AGCO Power 8.4 litre, six cylinder engine with twin turbos. Horsepower gets channelled through a Dyna-VT CVT transmission. The smaller tractors in the 7700 Series use either 6.6 or 7.4 litre six-cylinder engines. With them, buyers get a choice of a Dyna-6 partial powershift transmission or Dyna-VT CVT.

The redesigned hood and grille help the CYCLAIR system cool engines in both lines without a large increase in cooling system size.

In the fall of 2014 the Jackson, Minnesota, assembly plant where Massey Ferguson and Challenger tractors are built, instituted new quality assurance tests that each tractor must pass before being allowed to head out to customers. Tractors face PTO and chassis dyno evaluations along with a “jounce” test that shakes the tractor to simulate rough field conditions. It ensures all electrical and hydraulic connections are tight and the tractors are properly assembled before going out to customers.

CHALLENGER

► Close cousins of the Massey Ferguson tractors within the AGCO family are the wheeled Challenger models. They share similar designs and features with the red tractors, and in 2014 the MT500 and MT600 models received the same kinds of updates.

With the updates these tractors are now known as the MT500E and MT600E models. Like the MF 7700s, the five MT500E tractors use either a 6.6 or 7.4 litre AGCO Power diesel. A CVT or Auto-Power VI transmission handles the power output. The MT600E models use an 8.4 litre engine and CVT transmission combination.

The brand's articulated four-wheel drive models were also upgraded to the MT900E Series in 2014, getting a boost in hydraulic capacity to a maximum of 85 g.p.m. (321 l/min.). Upgrades to the MT900E cab interior include an optional leather heated and ventilated seat.

For 2015 Challenger introduced a limited-production version of its tracked MT700/MT800E models called the X-Edition, which have a unique "Midnight-black" paint scheme along with the brand's deluxe cab.

JOHN DEERE

► John Deere's 9RX articulated, four-track tractor debuted in 2015. The all-new offering based on the existing 9R Series platform includes four models spanning the 470 to 620 horsepower range. Along with Camso track modules, the 9RX debuted some other new features, including a suspended cab for improved operator comfort and an upgraded hydraulic system with a new maximum capacity of 115 g.p.m. (435 l/min.).

The smaller two 9RX models use Deere's 13.5 PowerTech engine, while the larger models are powered by a QSX15 Cummins. All models will share the brand's e18 transmission with efficiency manager, which is also used in the wheeled 9R tractors.

Deere's 8R and 7R MFWD models don't get any major changes for the 2016 model year. But they do get the advantages of continuing improvements to field connectivity with Deere's telematics offerings. Deere's Machine Sync, which was originally introduced to allow combines and grain carts to work together, has been expanded to allow combinations of equipment to work together in a field and share data, such as guidance lines and coverage maps.

And Deere introduced the EZ Ballast system for 7R Series tractors at the Agritechnica machinery expo in Hanover Germany in November. The 1.7 tonne weight can be attached or disconnected to the tractor in just a few seconds without getting out of the tractor cab.

Lower down the horsepower ladder, the green brand also made changes to its 6 Family line of tractors, upgrading the previous 6D models and re-designating them the 6E. Now, 6 Family models span the 105 to 215 horsepower range with three different levels of features.

To streamline data transfer from the field, Deere introduced the Mobile Data Transfer device, which connects USB ports on older Deere or non-Deere in-cab monitors to a wireless network. It allows for faster and easier transfer of data from tractors to a subscriber's cloud-based data storage.

MCCORMICK

► When Argo's McCormick brand unveiled the X7 Series tractors at Agritechnica in November of 2013, which topped out at 195 horsepower, it represented the newest and largest model series the company had yet shown as it undertook the process of revamping its entire tractor line. The following summer the first X7 to come to North America was shown at Canada's Farm Progress Show in Regina, Saskatchewan.

But even then the company made no secret of the fact there were more new models set to appear. In 2015 the company announced it would introduce another model to the X7 line at Agritechnica in November. It is the X7.650 which is rated at 150 horsepower; and it brings the total number of X7 models to six.

But the company said it didn't plan to stop there. And it didn't. It also introduced the three-model X8 Series at Agritechnica in 2015. Equipped with a four-range CVT transmission, the X8 tractors top out at 301 rated engine horsepower. The X8s can push hydraulic capacity to 212 l/min. and up to 10 remote valves can be ordered.

MTZ

► The tractor brand formerly marketed in Canada under the Belarus brand name is back, with a new name and new North American distributor. The Belarus factory that builds these tractors markets them around the world under both the Belarus and MTZ brand names. (MTZ is an acronym for Minsk Tractor Works.) Because of legal ownership of the Belarus name in Canada by the previous distributor, the new company decided to simply use the factory's alternate name brand, MTZ. But the tractors are the same.

Although it's still in the process of establishing dealers and getting its marketing up to speed in both Canada and the U.S., the company is offering three, six-cylinder, front-wheel assist models with 136, 150 and 212 engine horsepower. But there is a promise of more models soon to arrive, with the brand expecting to add three more front-wheel assist tractors from 305 to 355 engine horsepower.

The new distributor is also offering parts support for older Belarus models.

And just like the previous Belarus models, simple, plain-Jane technology that's easy to repair without sophisticated electronics is what MTZ is offering farmers once again. But they do offer features, like a 24F x 12R mechanical shuttle shift or 16F x 8R partial powershift transmissions, along with both 540 and 1,000 r.p.m. PTO.

Bringing one feature more common on European tractors, the MTZ models include an on-board air compressor with inflation hose as standard equipment.

VERSATILE

► Winnipeg-based Versatile offers three MFWD tractors in the 190 to 310 horsepower range

The brand's newest models at the high end of that power range offer the newest body style. That new design improves forward visibility by 35 per cent, because of the steep sloping hood. Keeping with the brand's long-standing tradition, all its machines continue to use Cummins engines. These models use the QSL 9 litre, while the smaller tractors use either a Cummins QSB 6.7 or QSC 8.3 litre version. Versatile is still taking advantage of its authorization to continue to use Tier 4 Interim engines in some of its machines for a limited time, rather than having to fully upgrade to Tier 4 Final-compliant diesels just yet.

Power from those engines gets channeled through 16F x 9R full powershift transmissions in the six largest tractors, while the three smallest use a partial powershift with shuttle-shift feature.

The standard HQ cab or more luxurious Deluxe version offer 73 square feet of window glass.

Versatile four-wheel drive models, which include the rubber-belted Delta Tracks, now top out at 550 horsepower.

The Co-operators is your farm insurance expert

It's a story only The Co-operators can tell – about farmers creating an insurance company distinguished by its principles. In 1945, after losing most of their belongings and savings during the Great Depression, a group of Saskatchewan farmers decided to pool their collective resources to start an insurance co-operative.

For expert insurance advice about your farming operations, contact your local Financial Advisor in the Yellow Pages™ or click on FIND A FINANCIAL ADVISOR at www.cooperators.ca.

ALBERTA farm & ranch

2016 DIRECTORY

Alberta's Farm & Ranch Directory is an annual directory of the Who's Who of farming, ranching, agribusiness and agriculture related services. It is the most extensive directory distributed to thousands of Alberta's top farmers and ranchers every year.

Why is it published?

The Alberta & Ranch Directory is circulated to over 44,000 farmers in Alberta, and is published by Farm Business Communications on behalf of Alberta Community and Co-operative Association (ACCA). The mission of ACCA is to strengthen Alberta communities through co-operative and agricultural awareness, training and development. The Alberta Farm & Ranch Directory is an important resource ACCA uses to support the backbone of our province...our farmers and ranchers. ACCA is very proud that 2015 will mark the 43rd edition of this popular directory.

A COMMITMENT TO GROWING

HANDLING | STORAGE | CONDITIONING | SOLUTIONS

Ag Growth International (AGI) is a leading manufacturer of portable and stationary grain handling, storage and conditioning equipment. Batco (specialty crop belt conveyors), Wheatheart (grain handling and fencing equipment), Westfield (portable grain augers), Grain Guard (grain drying and storage equipment), Twister (galvanized grain bins), REM (GrainVacs) and Westeel (storage solutions) are all leading brands, part of the AGI group.

AGI is pleased to introduce the first ever equipment focused farmer program, the AGI SHARE Program. We have designed the SHARE Program to help farmers find maximum value in the best products available. The first year AGI SHARE Program is simple. Farmers are eligible for rebates on AGI handling products, as long as they purchase Westeel smoothwall bins. The bins and handling products can be purchased anytime from November 1st, 2015 through October 31st, 2016. The smoothwall bin purchase is the trigger to qualify farmers for the program and determines their reward level.
